Bought Two Purebreds From Prince of Wales

There was only one guest from the Didsbury district at the big picnic and sale of purebred stock held at the Prince of Wales ranch at High River on Wednesday last.

Mr. Dave Irwin who farms northeast of town was a guest at the ranch and also bought two purebred Shorthorn cows for which he paid $300 each and both cows are in calf.

Dave says he had the time of his life and was sorry that he did not see more Didsbury men present. He was royally entertained with the rest of the guests and while he was too busy to shake hands with the Prince he was close to him a number of times and also hobnobbed with Prof. Carlyle. Mr. Irwin has come back a great admirer of the Prince who he states conducted himself just like one of the crowd and appeared to be having a good time.

Town Loses Assessment Case

The friendly dispute between Mr. W. G. Liesemer and the town of Didsbury over the assessment on Mr. Liesemer's business block on Railway Ave. was brought into Court at Calgary last week and was tried before Judge McNeill. Mr. Austin appeared for the town and Mr. Liesemer conducted his own case.

The dispute arose over the assessment which the town set and which was verified by Mr. Wallace, official assessor of the City of Calgary, last year. Mr. Liesemer objected that it was too high. The Judge lowered the assessment by $2,500.

Another Fine Residence Completed

Didsbury is gradually assuming a metropolitan appearance in its residential property, every year there is an addition made to its already large number of fine looking homes. This year has been no exception, the latest addition being the splendid semi-bungalow erected by Mr. J. V. Berscht on his property on the corner opposite Mrs. G. B. Sexsmith's residence.

The home has just been completed and Mr. Berscht moved into it last week. It contains the latest improvements in water, lighting and septic tank improvements and has seven fine large rooms with necessary closets and conveniences with a large sun parlor facing the east. A large open fire place is situated in the sitting room. The outside walls are finished in cream and chocolate tones and gives a fine appearance situated as it is in the center of two large lots. The lawn surrounding the house has been fixed up and the whole presents a very pleasing appearance.

Provincial Convention of the W. C. T. U.

The twelfth annual convention of the Alberta Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in Knox Presbyterian church in Edmonton on October the 1st, 2nd and 3rd inst.

73 Delegates and visitors were present. Among these were five of our women from Didsbury and Westcott.

The speakers at the convention were: Mrs. Silbaugh, of Seattle,

Wash., a National Temperance lecturer; Mrs. Biglow, the Provincial organizer for Sask.; Mr. Hull, Sec. of the Alberta Provincial Prohibition Association; Mr. Krett, the worker in the Ruthenian colony and our beloved President, Mrs. McKinney. Everyone of them emphasized the need of the education of our young people in the principals of temperance and the living up to our motto, "For God and Home and Canada."

Arthur Reiber is again the winner of the provincial prize for his essay on "The harmful effects of wine and beer drinking."

We are also glad that the Didsbury Loyal Temperance Legion has won the banner for the second year. To carry on this work we need and ask for the hearty cooperation of the parents for we all realize that no country can rise higher in quality and culture than the average home.

Chautauqua Will Soon Be Here

The season for Chautauqua in Didsbury is closely approaching, in fact will commence on Saturday, October 18th, and will continue as usual for three days, six performances in all being given.

The program this year is fully up to the good standard of other years if not a little better and includes not only instructive lectures but some good musical and humorous numbers.

Get your season tickets from the committee and save money on the whole program. The tickets for adults are $2.25 with 25 cents tax added and $1.00 and tax for children for all six performances. Don't miss the Chautauqua!

AROUND THE TOWN

Monday, November 10th, has been proclaimed Thanksgiving Day. This day is also Armistice Day.

It is reported that Mr. Ab. Hunsperger threshed 70 bushels of oats to the acre off stubble a few days ago.

Russell Berscht, who is attending College in Calgary, spent the week end with his parents.

The last issue of the Alberta Gazette contains the name of Mr. A. E. Ryan of Didsbury appointed as Commissioner for Oaths.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec. Guy and son Roy were visitors at Calgary over the week end, motoring down on Saturday night.

Mr. S. S. Gole of Kitchener, Ont. and his grandson, Oscar, is visiting with his daughter Mrs. M. Weber.

Regulations of the Alberta Government Liquor Control Act provides that a druggist may sell and keep for sale, in one ounce bottles only, essence of peppermint.

The Didsbury Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. A. G. Studer at 2.30 sharp on Friday, October 10th. A good program will be rendered. Mrs. Studer will demonstrate the use of whole wheat flour.

Mr. J. Lindeman, of Medicine Hat, is visiting with Mr. F. A. Polkmann. Mr. Lindeman has suffered through the drouth in his district and is looking for a location in this district. He has made no mistake in coming here if he can get located.

Bring Down Production Costs

The rise in the price of wheat means a better return for his year's work to the Western farmer, and this betterment does not come a bit too soon, because it is admitted by everybody that things have not been well with Western agriculture.

Too frequently in the past an increase in the selling price of wheat has been accompanied by an increase in the cost of production and marketing, with the result that the benefits of the higher price has not accrued to the farmer. This year, however, this situation does not, fortunately prevail. On the contrary, production and marketing costs are, on the whole, lower.

Gratifying and important as is the rise in the price of wheat, reductions in production and marketing costs is even more important. The advance in price may be but temporary, and a change in world crop conditions next year may mean a decided drop. Reductions effected in production and marketing costs are likely to continue effective for a longer period of time, and, inasmuch as a penny saved is as good as a penny earned, the importance of bringing about such reductions in a permanent way becomes manifest.

The inauguration of Wheat Pools in the three prairie provinces with a joint selling agency is designed to bring about a permanent saving in costs of marketing and selling, while at the same time assisting to maintain prices by preventing the dumping of too great a volume of wheat on the market at any time, thereby "breaking" the price. If the farmers stand loyally by their Pools—and we believe the vast majority will—coupled with careful and expert management, the desired results should be realized.

A lasting reduction in production costs should likewise result from the coming into full effect of the lower freight rates provided for in the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement. True, as those rates have been applied, discrimination of various kinds has resulted, which discriminations cannot be allowed to continue, and the matter is now before the Railway Commission for adjustment. However, as the Crow's Nest Pass rates are part and parcel of a contract, and as the Dominion Government has fulfilled its part of that contract, the people have a right to expect, and will demand, that the lower rates provided for, and the consideration for which the country has already paid, be maintained, and any discrimination existing removed, not by raising these rates, but by meeting them where necessary.

Railway freight and express rates are still higher in the West than in the East, notwithstanding the fact that the old bogey, that operating costs were greater and net earnings lower in the West than in the East has long since been disposed of, and the fact established that the reverse is true. Freight rates are still unduly burdensome on Western production and development, both as to incoming and outgoing shipments. It is probably true that the railways are not wholly to blame for present rates. They are still suffering from the insane McAdoo award in the United States during the war which boosted wages of railway employees out of all proportion to those prevailing in other lines of business activity, and imposing restrictions as to employment even more serious than the wage increases. The producers of Canada cannot continue to pay these wages and employ more men than are necessary to give required transportation service.

Farmers themselves can continue to do much individually to bring down their production costs. To an increasing extent they can themselves raise supplies which to too great an extent in the past they purchased at the prevailing high prices. Greater care of farm machinery, and its proper housing when not in use, will reduce repair bills enormously and lengthen the life of necessary farm equipment.

Then, too, the most expensive business in which many Western farmers are today engaged is the production of weeds and the threshing, hauling to market, freighting to terminals, and finally cleaning of weed seeds. Not only does all this constitute a dead loss in itself, but through lower yields per acre and in depreciation of land values, farmers are paying a tremendous bill. No matter how high the price of wheat may go, it will not compensate for this loss, and regardless of how low freight rates may be, they will always be extortionately heavy on non-productive weed seeds, of which, unfortunately, thousands of tons are shipped annually.

Western farmers act wisely in co-operating in the marketing and selling of their grain; they do well to continue the fight for lower freight rates and reductions in the cost of articles they must purchase, but along with these efforts there must be unremitting attention to individual farm management if Western agriculture is to prosper and be lifted out of its present depression.

Flying Comes High

Has Already Cost the Nations Billions Of Dollars

Our great dirigible airship, the Shenandoah, cannot have a hangar on this coast because it would cost too much—about $2,500,000. A mooring mast is all the nation can afford, and even that will cost $150,000. Think of that—$150,000 for a hitching post. It is said that by the time the aviators encircle the globe complete their journey will cost something in the neighborhood of $5,000,000. Of the billions flying has already cost the nations there is as yet no complete account, and we doubt if there ever will be. Flying comes, as well as goes, high, and we did not need it. If it had never been invented we would be getting along about as well and could use the money for something else. However, it seems too late to do anything about it now.—San Francisco Bulletin.

THE GROWING GIRL

Requires a Mother's Constant Care and Watchfulness

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by too rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, languor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow, with low spirits.

At the first symptom of anaemia mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills will quickly banish all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure her a robust girlhood. Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her strong like thousands of girls and women throughout Canada who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Saskatchewan

Co-operative Creameries

General Re-Organization of the Creameries Has Been Completed

With the appointment of Mr. Percy E. Reed, late Provincial Dairy Commissioner, to the position of Production Superintendent for the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, Ltd., the general re-organization of the creameries has been completed, and it is now possible for the people of Saskatchewan to look upon the organization with renewed confidence.

The new directors, and particularly the new president, Mr. J. A. Gregory, of North Battleford, have devoted themselves unremittingly ever since last March to the task of re-organization, and the results so far constitute a very gratifying promise that the creameries will shortly assume the place in the economic life of Saskatchewan to which they are entitled. The new general manager, Mr. A. P. McLean, has already succeeded in securing economy and increased efficiency. Labor costs have been cut down where possible and some inefficient and unnecessary employees dismissed.

Cream production is rapidly increasing. Despite the dry pastures which characterized the 1924 season, weekly totals show large advances over the corresponding weeks of 1923.

A scheme for marketing poultry co-operatively has been worked out with the assistance of the Department of Agriculture and is now in operation. At every cold storage plant poultry will be received, and at the Saskatoon and Regina plants an experiment in feeding and fattening will be tried out. Poultry production in Saskatchewan has shown a rapid increase during the past few years and the creamery executive are taking a most important step in the right direction in this attempt to put poultry handling and marketing on an efficient basis.—Saskatoon Star.

Eskimos Clever Carvers

King Island Natives Sell Work in Nome During Summer

Every year since Nome can remember the entire native village of King Island makes a pilgrimage to the city, arriving about July 4 and remaining most of the summer.

The natives, a clean, industrious and healthy lot, make the trip of approximately 100 miles in boats which they build from the hides of walrus. Seven of these boats carry the whole population, including all their possessions.

The King Islanders are clever carvers. Arriving in Nome with several tons of ivory, they carve the rough tusks into crib boards, gavels, forks, knives, spoons, umbrella handles, hatpins and numerous other things. The merchants and people of Nome patronize them liberally, so that the camp usually collects thousands of dollars during the season, and these profits they put back into circulation by purchasing supplies for the next winter.

These Eskimos enter the summer athletic contests at Nome and often develop athletes of ability. At other times they provide entertainments with their orchestra.

Increase Life Span

Average Life Lengthened By 20 Years During Past Century

The average life has been lengthened twenty years during the past century and will be lengthened twenty more during the next century. Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, medical director of the Life Extension Institute, declared at Atlantic City.

Ill-health and deaths caused the wastage of $300,000,000 annually, he said. The average life, Dr. Fisk said, is worth $5,000; the life of a baby $150, while an 80-year-old man represents a deficit of $1,400. A man aged 35 is a semi-invalid, he declared, in comparison to a youth of 21.

Minard's Liniment for Dandruff

Alberta Creamery Butter

Nearly twenty-five per cent. increase is expected to be recorded this year in the production of Alberta creamery butter over the production of 1923. The production last season was 17,750,000 pounds and this year an output of about 22,000,000 is expected.

Business Better In West

Stimulation in General Trade Is Confidently Predicted

Press dispatches state that business conditions generally are reported improved throughout Western Canada. The heavy movement of grain at advanced prices, demand for livestock and other farm products, have brought out more optimism on the prairies than for some time.

The peak of the grain movement has not yet been reached and by the time it is, it is thought retail business will show away above normal. Clothing, boots and shoes, household furniture and lumber are among the articles jobbers and retail merchants report active at present with a tendency to advance.

Do not allow worms to sap the vitality of your children. If not attended to, worms may work irreparable harm to the constitution of the infant. The little sufferers cannot voice their ailment, but there are many signs by which mothers are made aware that a dose of Miller's Worm Powders is necessary. These powders act quickly and will expel worms from the system without any inconvenience to the child.

Money In Honey

George Reidel, in his first year as a beekeeper in Southern Alberta, has produced more than 40,000 pounds of honey. Mr. Reidel started an apiary in the Coldlake irrigated district and has extended his operations to six apiaries with a total of 300 bee colonies. Mr. Reidel claims that Southern Alberta is one of the finest bee districts in the world.

UNIVERSAL PEACE MAY BE RESULT OF LEAGUE PLANS

Geneva.—A warning that wars based on economic reasons may menace the world in the future was issued by Aristide Briand, many times premier of France, when, with that same fire of eloquence and emotion which stirred his auditors at the Washington naval conference, he called upon all nations to approve the protocol for pacific settlement of international disputes, and pledged there and then France's adhesion without reservation whatsoever.

The amended protocol of arbitration and security occupied the attention of the assembly of the League, and a general report by Dr. Benes and M. Pollis, representing the two commissions which jointly framed the document, accompanied it, furnishing an explanation of the various changes made in the original protocol.

"Men may say," continued the former premier, "that economic wars are possible because the interests of nations may be swayed by the same considerations as the interests of selfish individuals, and that under the influence of selfish interests, the ideal and duty may be obscured or mutilated. Tomorrow, therefore, having now settled political questions, the League of Nations must settle completely the difficult economic problems. But France will be ever ready to help in their solution."

Great Britain, through Lord Parmoor, did not go as far as France, merely announcing her acceptance of the resolution transmitting the protocol to the Government, but promising to exert all the influence of the British Government and Parliament to ratify it. The speaker insisted that the protocol represented no attempt to make the council or the assembly of the League a super-state, with authority over the various Governments. Such an attempt would court inevitable failure.

"Neither the council nor the assembly," he continued, "will have any power to interfere in internal affairs beyond what is already comprehended in the covenant, that is to say, not until a stage has been reached meaning war or threat of war, at which stage a new condition arises and we enter into the sphere of international law."

Find Bones Of Giant Animals

Fossilized Bones of Animals of Cretaceous Age Found in Saskatchewan

Saskatoon.—Fossilized bones of the giant animals that reigned three to six millions of years ago were recently discovered by Ralph Nelson, of Unity, Sask., in the vicinity of Muddy Lake, in the Unity district. The discovery has been reported to the University of Saskatchewan and the Dominion Department of the Interior, and the deposits have been identified as a typical bone bed of the Cretaceous age. It is the first discovery of its kind in Saskatchewan.

Revenue From Liquor

$1,200,000 Is Gross Liquor Sales Profit In Manitoba

Winnipeg.—Manitoba's gross profit from the first year's operation of the Liquor Control Act amounted to approximately $1,200,000, according to figures announced by the Provincial Revenue Audit Department.

Out of the total revenue, the city of Winnipeg will receive as its share about $175,000, while the municipalities in the province will also receive a proportional share of the net profits.

Design For Laurier Statue Has Been Decided On

Ottawa.—The sub-committee of the Cabinet, which, with the assistance of experts, has been passing judgment upon the fifty designs submitted for the statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, have accepted that of J. Emile Brunet, of Montreal. He is a young sculptor who has been studying abroad and who made some of the ornamental designs of the Parliament Buildings. The statue is to be in bronze and life size, and will be an imposing base, with steps leading to the pedestal. The model is very life-like. It will probably be cast and completed by next summer and the unveiling will be occasion of a ceremony fitting the distinguished statesman.

Advertising Canada In British Isles

Travelling Exhibition Similar to That Which Toured France Is Suggested

"The best, most effective and cheapest publicity Canada has ever obtained," said Mr. Laureys, Directors of the College des Hautes Etudes Commerciales, when shown a feature story in a well known American publication, "A Canadian Caravan in France." The Canadian Government never spent money to wiser purpose, and the fact of this story being sent to the United States and being featured in the magazine section of the Boston Transcript, is just one instance of what general interest the Canadian motor train in France aroused. The train was three months on the road, exhibited in 30 principal French cities as well as innumerable smaller towns and villages of 10,000 population or less, and was visited by not less than 3,000,000 people—probably 7,000,000.

"It brings back very pleasant and stirring memories," continued M. Laureys, "of enthusiastic crowds which mobbed us at every point at which we stopped in France and Belgium; all eager to learn something about Canada and Canadian trade and products. We carried the goods and wares of over 130 Canadian manufacturers, 75 per cent. of which were accompanied by booklets and catalogues printed in the French language."

"It does not seem to have resulted in any flow of immigration from France to Canada," commented The Gazette's representative.

"That was hardly to be expected. The French people are not emigrating just now; the war made them too much needed at home. The object of the train was purely a trade one, and in that consideration it aroused extensive interest in the general populace. Certainly, Canada is receiving immeasurable benefit as a result."

A survey of the immigration figures for the first seven months of the calendar year shows that from all countries, Canada has received but 20,351 more immigrants during 1921 than during the similar period in 1923, and from Great Britain alone an increase of only 16,464, a disappointing result of the combined efforts of the Government and the transportation companies.

"It is undoubtedly a fact," continued Mr. Laureys, that all interested in the progress and further development of the Dominion of Canada desire to see a greater influx of immigration of the agricultural class and particularly from Great Britain. The Government figures indicate clearly that results are not up to expectation. The Hon. Mr. Robb, Mr. E. W. Beatty, Sir Henry Thornton, and other prominent men active in this connection, have again and again emphasized the need of greater population and have been, and are doing, what they can to further it. What then further can be done to stimulate it? Would not a similar train operating in Great Britain be an effective and reasonable means of both stimulating further British immigration, whilst at the same time developing Canadian trade? Is there a better way of bringing Canada's possibilities home to the people of Great Britain, which possesses a surplus population? Such a train operating throughout the British Isles, exhibiting in the smaller towns and villages as well as the bigger ones, should, through its very novelty, attract much attention and widespread publicity. Doubtless a replica of the thirty gray-green, blue-bordered motor trucks, travelling through England,

Bank Inspector On Stand

Edward A. Kemp, Chief Inspector of the defunct Home Bank, who was a witness in the trial of Sydney H. Jones, its auditor. He said his instructions came from the general manager, not from the Board of Directors.

Ireland and Scotland as they travelled through France and Belgium would cause something of a sensation which other forms of publicity have failed to effect. Withal it would be economical. Canadian publicity in England has been too much of a hit and miss order. Heavy expenditures and floods of literature to reach an individual, just as it took tons of ammunition to despatch a single one of the enemy in the war.

"On the contrary, the motor train hits its object every time. It is startlingly conspicuous and speaks for itself. The largest city or the smallest hamlet may be visited, and invariably it is possible to secure the best location for attracting the greatest number of people. There is merely the removal of the side panels and Canada stands revealed in all the potency of her most varied appeal."

"It is a travelling exhibition. It is a Wembley on wheels. It is safe to say that the greater portion of the people who contemplate emigrating to Canada from the British Isles did not have the opportunity of seeing the Canadian exhibit at Wembley. Let us take Wembley to them. Let us follow up the unquestioned success in its way of the British Empire Exhibition by taking the Canadian exhibition to the population in the most effective way. Surely this is the psychological time, and I feel convinced that Canada would discover it to be the best and cheapest way of advertising herself in the British Isles she has yet tried."

Empire Conference Unlikely

Difficulty Said to Have Arisen Regarding Suitable Date

Ottawa.—The Government is without any further official advice as to the proposed round-table conference of the Empire suggested for October. It was expected that on the return of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary, from South Africa, some definite word would be received whether the conference would be held or not. The assumption here, pending official advice, is that it is unlikely the conference will be held.

Some difficulty, it is understood, rose between the Dominions as to a suitable date. October was proposed tentatively, the undertaking being that in event of a conference being called, Canada would be represented by her delegates to the League of Nations at Geneva. But the assembly is concluding its labors, and official call of a conference is still wanting.

As these delegates will soon be on their way home, it is taken for granted that it is improbable the conference will be called for the present month.

Many Canadians Return From United States

Ottawa.—The return of Canadians from the United States is given at approximately 5,000 a month, according to a bulletin issued by the Department of Immigration. Since May, 23,861 Canadians have returned home. Since May 1 the total immigration to Canada has been 76,719, as compared with 80,161 for the same period last year. The largest movement from the United States during August was from Michigan, which amounted to 349. The state of Washington came next, with 272, and New York state third with 172.

Australian Trade Treaty

Details of Some of the Points Covered By the Pact

Ottawa.—Information given out here, and coming over the cables from the Antipodes, gradually reveals the terms of the Australian trade treaty, which has not yet been fully made public here, although it has been under discussion in the Commonwealth Parliament. Up to the present the indications available indicate that the following points are covered:

Canada gives Australia her full preference.

Canada does not get the full British preference from Australia.

Canada gets certain concessions from Australia which are regarded as of importance to Canadian manufacturers, but the details of which have not yet been announced.

Canada does get a preference on newsprint, which is being criticized as giving Canadian paper makers advantages over their British competitors.

Canada has already amended her tariff to allow Australia a preference on dried raisins and currants, and these new duties may be brought into effect by order in council.

Another announcement which bears upon the trade agreement is that Australia has raised the percentage of British labor and material required to bring imports within the terms of the preference. It is not clearly understood here whether this would apply on imports from Canada, but it is generally assumed that it would.

The Canadian requirement in this connection is that imported goods must contain 25 per cent. of British labor and materials; but the indications are that Australia has raised this proportion to 50 or 70 per cent.

Bank Amalgamation

Reported That Standard and Sterling Banks Are To Join Forces

Toronto.—A joint announcement issued by the Boards of Directors of the Standard Bank of Canada and the Sterling Bank of Canada states that approval has been obtained from the Minister of Finance for the amalgamation of these two banks under the name of the Standard-Sterling Bank of Canada. Under the agreement two shares of Standard Bank stock will be given for three shares of Sterling.

The agreement will be consummated as soon as it is ratified by the shareholders of the institutions interested. A special meeting of the shareholders of the Sterling Bank for ratification of the agreement has been called for November 27. The shareholders of the Standard Bank have also been notified of a meeting to be held on November 17 for approval of the amalgamation.

Loss of the Lady Kindersley

H. B. Co. Vessel Reported To Have Sunk With Million Dollar Cargo
Victoria, B.C.—When the steamer Bay Chino dropped anchor at the quarantine station here, she brought Captain Gus Foellmer and five others of the crew of the Lady Kindersley, which had been lost in the ice of the Arctic Ocean.

The Lady Kindersley is probably at the bottom of the ocean by now, Captain Foellmer stated. The Kindersley was a Hudson's Bay Company vessel, sailing out of Vancouver, and had a million dollar cargo aboard, not a particle of which could be saved.

"If we had stuck to our ship one day longer, not one of us would have had a chance," Captain Foellmer said.

OPPOSITION TO SOVIET TREATY BECOMES ACUTE

London.—A critical situation for the Government has suddenly arisen, according to statements in Liberal and Conservative quarters, by reason of a motion of censure against the Government, notice of which was given in the House by Sir Robert Horne, and the motion which Mr. Asquith has submitted for rejection of the Anglo-Saxon Soviet Russian treaty. Sir Robert Horne's censure motion is in connection with the Government's refusal to "allow an exposure at this time" of the real circumstances connected with the abandoning of the prosecution of the Communist paper, Worker's Weekly, whose editor is charged with sedition.

It may be taken as certain that the Conservatives will support Mr. Asquith's motion, and political gossip says that the bulk of the Liberals will support Sir Robert Horne's.

The treaty cannot be discussed until the formal autumn session of the House, which begins October 28, but it is predicted that the Government will be defeated when the Communist prosecution question is debated.

Some of the papers regard the Government's present position as impossible, forecasting its fall and a probable general election this autumn.

Canada's Trade With Germany

Great Britain's Refusal Of Imperial Preference Has Stimulated Business

London.—Socialists and Liberals who so cheerfully conspired to refuse the Dominions the small measure of additional preference to which the Baldwin Government gave assent at the Imperial Conference last year will soon see the first fruits of their actions," the Morning Post's political correspondent says. He adds, "under the Treaty of Versailles, Germany will be free almost immediately to make commercial treaties with other nations," and the correspondent foresees increased trade by Germany with Australia and Canada.

"Canada is finding an excellent customer in Germany for her exports and the other Dominions, not unnaturally, may consider that as Great Britain has refused imperial preference, they must look elsewhere for trade."

Discover New Disease

Moscow.—Professors Fleroff and Kousmin, of the Institute of Experimental Medicine, announced the discovery of a new disease which they claim prevails during epidemics of influenza, manifesting itself by severe chills, violent headache, vomiting, nasal hemorrhage, accompanied by high temperature. The malady, which is still unnamed, lasts from two to six days and is of a communicable character, but not necessarily fatal.

Ottawa.—The Government has been giving consideration to the question recently broached by the authorities of the British Empire Exhibition in regard to the continuance of the exhibition next year.

The cabinet has practically decided against participation in the continuance of the show, reasons of economy being urged.

The assessment dispute between Mr. W. G. Liesemer and the town was settled last week as will be seen in another column. The town officials are satisfied, even though the case did go against them, and Mr. Liesemer is also pleased at the outcome. A definite principle has been established which satisfies the officials. There is only one comment to make. While our assessments may seem high to the ratepayers in comparison with great many other towns they are lower than the average. A certain amount of revenue must be raised to meet the obligations of the town so that no matter if the assessment is lowered the tax rate will have to be raised to meet this revenue. A high tax rate militates against the reputation of the town but there seems to be no relief for next year as the rate will have to be raised.

IN MEMORIAM

ELIZABETH BOORMAN

Whereas God in His infinite wisdom has called from our midst our beloved sister Elizabeth Boorman, we humbly pause and bow our heads at the vacant chair so suddenly vacated by our dear sister.

Be it resolved that St. Hill's Chapter No. 27, Order of the Eastern Star of Didsbury, mourn the loss of one of its most efficient members, one who always held the interests of our Chapter at heart one who has always been willing to do her duty in whatever sphere assigned, to the best of her ability.

It is resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Chapter and a copy sent to the Didsbury Pioneer, also one sent to the bereaved husband and mother, to whom at this sad time our hearts go out in sympathy. Drawn up by a committee on behalf of the members of our Chapter.

PRINCE'S FIRST SALE

The first annual auction sale of purebred livestock on the EP ranch at Pekisko, Alberta, was held on Wednesday last, with the Royal owner of the ranch, H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, in personal attendance. The occasion was also the annual picnic of the Alberta Shorthorn Breeders' Association, and the Prince threw open the ranch to the visiting public for the entire day. Nearly 2,000 persons attended the event. The stock offered for sale included some top notch male and female shorthorn stock, as well as Hampshire and Shropshire sheep. The top price for shorthorn bull was paid by Col. Parmee, of Oklahoma, who bid in Princeton Enthusiast at $775. The average for the 14 bulls sold was $300, and the top price paid for females was $450, seven being offered altogether. The highest figure in the sheep sale was $140 for a Shrop ram. The auctioneer was J. W. Durno of Calgary. The prince for the first time gave permission for cameramen to be present on the ranch during his visit, and he also received the newspaper writers who were at the sale. Following the sale the Prince left with his suite for Jasper Park, west of Edmonton, afterwards proceeding to Vancouver.

The concentration camp for emigrants to Canada and the United States maintained by the Canadian Pacific Railway and other steamship companies, is located at Southampton, England. It has an average daily attendance of 600 and, on some days, the number is about 1,000. Comfortable quarters and meals at moderate cost are provided and features of the camp are the special dining-room for Jewish passengers, the private shower baths, with towels and bathing gowns supplied and the individual rooms which are also available.

IRISH EARL VISITS CANADA

THE Earl of Leitrim, who has been spending a vacation on this side of the Atlantic, passed through Montreal on his return home, sailing last week by the Canadian Pacific steamer "Montclare." The Earl is greatly interested in the development of Donegal as a tourist resort, and has been interested to find that part of Ireland bears so much resemblance to Maine and New Brunswick—with wooded hills running up to about two thousand feet high and streams and lakes full of fish. Ireland, according to the Earl, is rapidly settling down to normal conditions, and Donegal has recently received a considerable influx of tourists, there being excellent hotels such as that at Rosapena, which has its own golf course, its own fishing for trout and salmon, and a beautiful bathing beach of golden sand four miles long with waters warmed by the gulf stream. Donegal is a great favorite with artists and writers, George Russell (better known as "A.E.") and John Masfield, being among the number of those who have painted or written about its beauties.

People are apt to think that the north-west Coast of Ireland is inaccessible, but as a matter of fact the Earl says he has frequently motored from Belfast to Rosapena in five hours. The roads are being improved and motor traffic in Ireland is on the increase, particularly now that so many Canadians and Americans are taking their own cars with them to the Old Country. The Earl of Leitrim who has crossed Canada before this is much interested to see the development of Canadian tourist resorts. He was particularly struck by the tremendous crowds he found at the Chateau Frontenac, in Quebec. It will be a long time, he says, before Donegal has such a hotel, but the present ones are very comfortable and surprise visitors from this side by the conveniences they offer.—Rosapena, for instance, having suites of rooms with private bath.

Owing to the greater ease in securing labor, the rates are also not so high as on this side—one can get very fair accommodation with meals included for five dollars a day, and this provides the opportunity for excellent salmon fishing in season.

Another erroneous opinion, according to the Earl, was that it rained all the time in the West of Ireland. The average rainfall in Rosapena is only from 40 to 45 inches a year. Visitors, he says, are too apt to think the climate of the whole of Ireland is the same as that of Killarney, which he admits is wet.

BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION MAY CONTINUE FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Australia having declared in favor of continuing the British Empire Exhibition for another year, and most of the other Dominions having supported the proposal, steps are taken to ascertain whether opinion in Canada is sympathetic. Until authority has been obtained from Canada the Canadian exhibition officials will not commit themselves, but it is believed they would endorse a decision to continue.

The opinion of Canadian exhibitors seems to be almost unanimous for a year's extension. This is not surprising since most of them have done extraordinary well out of the exhibition. Besides huge contracts which have been placed for Canadian dairy products, orders have been received for millions of boxes of British Columbia apples and for another coast product—canned salmon—an order was booked a few days ago for 135,000 cases.

A Canadian milk products firm was amazed to receive an order for its output for the next five years. British Columbia timber representatives have obtained a large contract for railway sleepers.—Canadian Finance.

Richer Than Gold

There was no one visible in the Home Restaurant when Seymour entered. While talking to Cato, however, he had seen the woman unlock the door and disappear within, and now, after he had shut the door noisily behind him, he heard someone moving behind the partition in the rear. He had time to make choice between a seat at one of the two small tables or a stool at the oilcloth-covered counter beside the range. Presently she came into the room. He was seated at the counter.

That she had been crying was evident; also that she had made an effort to remove the traces. Inwardly Seymour regretted that he had not left her alone longer with her grief. "I'll leave it to you, ma'am," he said as she came to take his order. "Whatever is easiest for you in the way of a square meal."

She murmured an apology for Gold's scanty markets, but thought she'd be able to feed him without falling back on the can-opener. Bread had been baked that morning, she told him, as she set out a stack of soft slices. But she could not speak as encouragingly about the butter's age.

Seymour liked her voice, understanding his sad inflection, and he could feel full sympathy for her wan smile. Fortunately the range was directly in front of his seat; he could study her without seeming rude as she placed a steak to broil and sliced potatoes for a raw-try.

In the course of his intent study of her, his hope grew that something valuable could be drawn from her. With the second sip of coffee, he broke bluntly into the matter in hand. "Well, they got poor Bart at last, I see!" he remarked.

He could see that he had startled her, as he had intended to do. She looked at him sharply, as if to make sure he was the stranger she had taken him to be. For a moment he feared she was going to break into tears, but with an effort she controlled herself, evidently being no stranger to sorrow.

"You knew Bart—the sergeant?" she asked, choking back a sob.

"In a way of speaking—yes," said Seymour. "I know that he was not an officer of the Royal Mounted."

With uncertain steps she felt her way along the lunch counter.

"Not—not an officer?" she faltered. "Why, what do you mean, sir?"

"Just what I say, madam. What's more, I know that Bart's sudden taking makes you a sure-enough widow. Instead of a pretended one. You have my deepest sympathy, Mrs. Caswell."

NERVES AND FAINTING SPELLS

Sent Woman to Bed. Great Change After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sarnia, Ontario.—"After my girlie was born I was a wreck. My nerves were too terrible for words and I simply could not stand or walk without pains. I suffered with fainting spells until I was no longer any good for my household duties and had to take to my bed. The doctor said I should have an operation, but I was not in a fit condition at that time. My neighbor said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' I am sure it will do you good and will save those doctor's bills." So I was advised by my husband to try it after I told him about it. I am very thankful to say that I was soon able to take a few boarders for a while as rooms were scarce at that time. My baby is 17 months old now and I have not yet had an operation, thanks to your medicine. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to a few people I know and have told them the good it has done me. I know I feel and look a different woman these last few months and I certainly would not be without a bottle of your medicine in the house. You can use this letter as you see fit, as I should be only too glad for those suffering as I have to know what it has done for me."—Mrs. ROBERT G. MACGREGOR, R. R. No. 2, Sarnia, Ontario.

A recent canvass of women users of the Vegetable Compound report 98 out of 100 received beneficial results. This is a remarkable proof of its merit. C

W. N. U. 1545

To himself, Seymour justified his seeming harshness of utterance on grounds of professional necessity; that there might be real mercy for the woman also involved, in case he succeeded in breaking through her reserve, was another consideration. Everything depended upon her reaction to this "shot" assertion. He had followed her on a hunch bred of her emotions at the impostor's blarney. Old man Cato had given him a plausible reason for her showing of grief. While studying her when she stood over the range, however, the idea had come to him that she had been Bert Caswell's wife. He was prepared to be shown that the woman herself was not a criminal, even by inclination. In fact, he was predisposed to believe that she would prove essentially honest.

"You're wrong, stranger—wrong on both counts!" the woman replied. She had steadied herself, was forcing her voice to hold an even tone. Seymour could not yet be sure that his hunch was right.

"Mr. Seymour was a staff-sergeant," she went on. "The coward that murdered him will learn that to his sorrow when Russell's mates come from headquarters to avenge his death. As for my being his widow—" She essayed a little laugh that was almost too much strain upon her histrionic powers. "I'm not saying what might have come to pass had not death stepped in; but as it stands, he was just a brave friend and a good-paying boarder."

A moment the sergeant merely stared at her; when he leaned along the counter toward her. "You'd like to see your brave friend's slayer punished, wouldn't you?"

A flash of fury lit her worn face; her teeth clicked ominously and her small, work-roughened hands clenched.

"I'd give the world if it were mine and count it well spent!" she cried. "If ever I find out who—" She checked herself, evidently fearing that she was going too far in behalf of a "brave friend and a good-paying boarder."

"Then tell me all you can about Bart, his recent movements and what he had planned for the future," urged Seymour quietly. "I'm here to get the man who killed him, Mrs. Caswell."

Probably it was more his repetition of that "Mrs. Caswell" than his declaration of purpose that suddenly unnerved her. It was such convincing indication that her denials had not been believed. She sank into a chair that stood by the front window and buried her face in her hands. She looked so hopeless that Seymour's heart was wrung with pity for her. His hunch had been right, but there was no need now to press it unfeelingly. She should have all the time she needed for sobbing readjustment.

"How come you to think you know so much about him—about us?" she asked presently without looking up.

"I know, ma'am. I am the real Russell Seymour—the sergeant whose uniform he wore."

His mask was off. He had been more frank than at first he intended to be, but in all circumstances, he considered the temporary secret of his identity safe with her.

Bart's widow started up in her chair. "Here to soon!" she exclaimed.

"Not soon enough, though, I'm sorry to say. If the Force had planted a detachment here with the first chinook, probably your husband would not have been tempted to hold up the B. C. X."

Mrs. Caswell groaned in her anguish. "You know—about—that, too?" "Naturally. How else would he get possession of my uniform? Tell me, madam; what did he expect to gather in when he held up the baggage stage? It's a cinch that he couldn't have known that my clothes were in transit."

But the little woman was not persuaded to answer at once. Seymour had to show her his official shield, which he had taken from its place of concealment in his trail pack when he stabled the horses before the inquest. He went to some pains, also, to show her that although she was an accessory after the crime, no charge would be placed against her if she helped in unraveling the latest murder.

He pointed out that, in view of the stolen uniform in which Bart had been killed, she could not hope to prevent the fatal stage robbery from being laid to him.

"But I can save his memory the disgrace of a brutal murder!" the widow cried, as though suddenly persuaded that the officer was a genuine one. She fluttered out of her chair into a more confidential position at the counter.

"Bart did shoot Ben Tabor but he had to fire in self-defense. It was his life or Tabor's; he made a brave man's choice." She paused a moment to catch a sob that seemed determined to escape, then proceeded to eulogize as best she might. "Bart Caswell was the gentlest of men. I never knew of his harming a soul before. Except for his wrong idea that the world owed him a living and his peculiar way of collecting it, there is nothing that could be said against him."

"I'm ready to be shown, Mrs. Caswell," the sergeant encouraged her.

He listened then to the old, old story of the double-cross in a new setting and with unusual variations. The First Bank of Gold, according to the widow, used considerable currency in its purchase of dust from the miners. To guard against robbery, the shipments were made in supposed secrecy by the weekly baggage stage, but the driver knew of the valuable load he carried occasionally. Caswell and Tabor had been friends in Vancouver before either came into the north country and soon after their meeting in Gold, the robbery had been planned. Bart had "stuck" the stage at the agreed point, only to be told by Tabor that the expected $30,000 shipment for that week had been withheld. Not then suspicious, Bart had accepted the statement as fact, expressed his hope that they'd have better luck next time, and was disappearing into the brush when Tabor fired upon him. The bullet struck a silver plate in Bart's back that had been placed there to repair a wound received during a Seattle gunfight some years before.

The blow staggered him, but he was uninjured. Turning as his friend was in the act of firing again, he had brought down the traitor with a single shot.

A hurried search of the express book showed that the currency shipment had been made. Driving the stage off the trail, Bart had examined the load thoroughly but had found no bank package. He concluded that Tabor had concealed it somewhere along the trail, meaning to get the whole of the loot for himself after putting the blame on the friend he expected to kill.

Watchful for flaws in the widow's account, Seymour seized upon a seeming one. "But if Bart had been killed in the brush, no loot would have been found on him," he pointed out. "Tabor still would have been held responsible for the currency."

"They had planned in advance," she smiled wearily, "that Tabor should report his stage robbed by three masked men. He need only have sworn that the other two got away with the bank package."

Seymour made mental note of at least one way of checking up on Mrs. Caswell's account, then asked her about the uniform.

"Your bag was the only thing on the wagon that Bart thought might be of use to him," she admitted with an air of frankness that was convincing.

"He brought it here—to a room he was supposed to have been renting from me—in the half story above the restaurant. When I found him there trying on the suit, he told me about his hard luck."

The sergeant felt that the crux of the interview was approaching, but meant to get at it gradually, retaining the full advantage of the confidence he had established.

"The idea of impersonating an officer of the Mounted—was that merely to assure him a get-away for the Tabor killing?" he asked.

"Partly to delay an investigation of that by pretending to have undertaken it itself; more to help him in another enterprise he had in view up the creeks."

Considering a moment, Seymour ventured: "Having failed in landing the bank currency, he was going after gold in the raw, perhaps?"

"He told me there was something richer than gold—"

The noisy opening of the street door interrupted. They glanced up to see Cato entering. Looking like a horrid gnome, with his long arms dangling almost to the ground from his misshapen shoulders, the ox driver advanced to a stool, one removed from Seymour. Upon this he pulled himself, after giving his neighbor the merest of nods. From the odor of his breath, he evidently had fortified himself for this untimely visit with bottled courage. He leered at the widow as if he considered himself assured of welcome now that his attractive rival had been eliminated.

"'Tis a starving man you see before you, Mary, Queen of Scots," he declared. "But a starving man with a jingle in his pockets. With all the goluses on in camp, I'm rejoiced that the Home is open for serving meals that is meals."

Recalling the hope which Cato had expressed on the street a short while before, Seymour wondered how long he would have to wait for an opportunity to finish his interview. He attacked the steak that had been neglected, hoping that the old man would be too engrossed in his "chances" to notice that the meat was cold.

"I haven't forgotten that second cup of coffee, sir," the widow had presence of mind enough to offer. "If you'll be wishing for supper this evening, please come in by eight as I'll be closing early."

Seymour took this as both his dismissal and an appointment for the widow to finish. Until eight o'clock, then, he would have to wait to know what Bart Caswell had in mind that was richer than gold and was to be had on the Creeks of Argonaut with the aid of a Royal Canadian police uniform.

Missed One Good Point

Coachman Gave Bishop Taylor Smith A New Idea

Bishop Taylor Smith, who is relinquishing his position of Chaplain-General to the British Forces at the end of the year, is fond of relating this story. He was addressing a crowded audience one evening, and was arguing that the Church of England was like the nave of a wheel, the spokes representing all other branches. When his address was over a coachman came up to him and observed: "I liked your discourse very much, but you missed one good point in it. You might well have ended off by saying, 'And the tyre is the love of Christ which should bind us all together.'"

"Thanks," replied the Bishop, "I will put that in next."

LITTLE HELPS FOR THIS WEEK

Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.—Matt. vi. 34.

Because in a day of my days to come There waiteth a grief to be, Shall my heart grow faint and my lips be dumb

In this day that is bright for me? —Margaret E. Sangster.

The present is all we have to manage; the past is irrevocable, the future is uncertain; nor is it fair to burden one moment with the weight of the next. Sufficient unto the moment is the trouble thereof. In looking forward to future life, let us recollect that we have not to sustain all its toll, to endure all its sufferings, or to encounter all its crosses at once. One moment comes laden with its own little burden, then flies, and is succeeded by another no heavier than the last; if one could be sustained, so can another and another.—Jane Taylor.

Bear Travels By Airplane

A new inmate for the Berlin Zoo, a tiny brown Russian bear, arrived in Berlin from Moscow recently by airplane. Fellow passengers declared that the animal did not appear to feel any discomfort from the 750 miles journey through the air, but in fact developed a voracious appetite and amused the other inmates of the cabin with its antics.

HEALTHY CHILDREN ALWAYS SLEEP WELL

The healthy child sleeps well and during its waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Baby's Own Tablets and they will soon be well and happy again. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation, colic and indigestion and promote healthful sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and may be given to the new-born babe with perfect safety. You can obtain the Tablets through any medicine dealer at 21 cents a box, or by mail, post paid, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bear River, N. S.—"My back was so bad I could hardly work. I was always tired out and had no ambition; was nervous and dizzy, and everything seemed to worry me. I also had terrible pains in my right side. I felt badly for about eighteen months, and could not do my work as it should have been done. I tried several doctors, and also bought about $25.00 worth of put up medicines, but I found no relief until I took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Doctor Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric acid) Tablets. I have taken two bottles of the Discovery, and four of the Anuric Tablets, and can say that I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years. Policemen Of the Seas

The Heavy Burden Which Must Be Carried By Great Britain

If the United States decides definitely to abandon battleships for aircraft exclusively, the world can only conclude that this great nation is intent upon shirking its moral responsibility to help keep peace on the seven seas of the earth.

For home defence, the battleship is obsolete. But until the science of flying is able to produce an airship capable of successfully patrolling remote areas, as the battleship does, the great Anglo-Saxon powers, upon whose ideals of progress depend the peace of the world, must maintain their battleships no matter what the cost.

If the United States withdraws from the battleship field to concentrate all defensive expenditures upon aircraft that can operate no further than a few hundred miles from American shores, the whole burden of policing the seven seas will fall in crushing force upon the British Empire.—Vancouver Sun.

"BREAKING IN" PIPES

REALLY SIMPLE TASK

Few pipe smokers enjoy the process of "breaking in" a new pipe. It's really a simple proposition if a little care be exercised and an effort which will repay the smoker in almost countless hours of satisfaction from a well-seasoned Briar pipe.

The first rule is that a new Briar should never be "started" in a draughty place or out-of-doors. Fill your pipe lightly with some good tobacco like "Macdonald's BRIER," says an expert, and smoke it slowly to avoid too rapid or excessive heating. The pipe should be smoked until every particle of "BRIER" is consumed, so that the "cake" may form at the bottom as well as at the top of the bowl. A new pipe should be allowed to become quite cool before being refilled.

"BRIER," Macdonald's Briar, makes the best fill for any pipe, new or old, and more men smoke BRIER than any other brand in Canada today.

Value Of Ensilage

The feeding of ensilage is one of the most important factors in reducing the cost of winter milk production, says the Saskatchewan Dairy Commissioner. A silo either above or below ground assures an abundance of cheap feed so essential to profits. There were 460 silos in the province in 1923, 167 of which were above ground.

Appeal For Ex-Service Men

Public Asked to Demand That Justice Be Done in Accordance With National Promises

In The Veteran, an organ of the G.W.V.A., and a publication that is doing good service in the interests of returned men, there is reference made in a recent issue to two typical cases of apparent neglect that has come under its notice. One case is of a veteran of three wars, and who served three and a half years in France, and who is now of the age of 46. This veteran is unable to work at his old trade through war disabilities. He received a small pension for three years and was subsequently discharged from hospital, and cut adrift. He has no money, is unable to work, and was forced to seek refuge in a shelter for down-and-outs. The other case relates to a man in British Columbia, who left a wife and family of small children to serve four years in France. Shortly after his return from the war he was forced to give up his job on account of some trouble which had sapped his energies—he was gassed in France. For over two years the G.W.V.A. sought to establish the right of this man to consideration by the Pension Department, but without success. Subsequently the man died, and his last request was that there should be nothing military about his funeral, that he was not to be buried in the soldiers' plot, and that every evidence of his war service should be destroyed.

The Veteran continues: "Neglect is rapidly aggravating the condition of these men with unrecognized war disabilities. Since the Board of Pension Commissioners fails to recognize the consequences of its neglect; since the Senate of Canada has shown a marked tendency at the last two sessions of Parliament to cast aside measures for the alleviation of these conditions; ex-service men are forced to ask the people of Canada to emphasize by popular and continuous demonstration their demand that justice be done in accord with the national promises. The proof of the need can be found in almost any neighborhood."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 12

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT

Golden Text: Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done. Matthew 6:10. Lesson: Matthew, Chapters 5 to 7. Devotional Reading: Psalm 65:9-13.

The Text Explained and Illumined

Directions Concerning Prayer, verses 5-8. "The most subtle kind of insincerity does not consist in deliberate willingness to mislead others; it consists rather in complacently allowing outward forms to be substituted for a genuine inward life. It is one thing never to speak insincerely; it is a deeper thing always to insist on being sincere. This deeper meaning is Jesus' thought when he says, 'Ye shall not be as the hypocrites'." (Fosdick). Can anyone say he is guiltless of this subtle kind of insincerity however free he may be of that pety which advertised itself to gain applause which Jesus instances, the standing and praying in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets—to be seen of men? It was the appearance of righteousness that the hypocrites counted, not for righteousness itself. "To be seen of men is, after all, one of the most influential incentives to human conduct. Some people go into reckless extravagance in order to be seen to have certain qualities than actually to possess them. There are many righteous men in prison while a great many who should be there are outside and seen of men to be righteous; but the average man, if it came to the actual test, would rather be in the position of the hypocritical scoundrel than in that of the publicly condemned righteous man." Many a refined woman would rather nourish a secret sin than be discovered in a slight open breach of etiquette. We all incline to the Pharisaic preference of a good reputation to deeply religious character" (H. S. Brewster). "Verily, I say unto you, They have received their reward," said Jesus of the hypocrites. The Greek word means received in full, and is the one used in drawing up receipts. They have received the full reward which they sought, they have been seen of men, they have no claim whatsoever to any further reward.

A Tasty and Dainty Dessert In Orange Fritters

A dainty tasty dessert is the final touch to any meal, but meals have the habit of occurring so frequently that one runs out of ideas for dishes that will please everybody and yet be simple and healthful. One of the nicest desserts we have run across in some time is this one:

Orange Fritters.—½ cupful Borden's Evaporated Milk, ½ cupful flour, 1-3 teaspoonful salt, 1 tablespoonful baking powder, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 1 teaspoonful butter, melted, 1 large orange, seedless, powdered sugar. Add the dry ingredients, sifted together, to the milk and then add the shortening. Divide the orange into sections. Heat fat. Dip the sections of the orange one at a time into the batter, slip them into the fat and cook till they are golden brown. Drain on crumpled paper, dust with powdered sugar, and serve with fruit sauce as a dessert.

This recipe comes from the Borden recipe book, which contains a wonderful variety of recipes, from soup to nuts, as the saying is, many of them illustrated in natural colors so beautifully as to make one want to try the dish instantly. A copy of the booklet may be obtained without cost from the Borden Company in Montreal on mentioning this paper.

Externally or Internally, it is Good.—When applied externally by brisk rubbing, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil opens the pores and penetrates the tissue, touching the seat of the trouble and immediately affording relief. Administered internally, it will still the irritation in the throat which induces coughing and will relieve affections of the bronchial tubes and respiratory organs. Try it and be convinced.

Special Service Squadron Reaches Home Port

Returns to Plymouth Harbor After Cruise Around the World

The special service squadron of the British navy, which has just concluded a ten months' cruise of the Empire, among the parts visited being Victoria, Vancouver and Halifax and St. John's, Nfld., received a welcome home at Plymouth recently.

Speaking on the reason for the cruise, the Morning Post says:

"The navy has been pared to the bone, and the white ensign has almost vanished from the waters where it was wont to be seen constantly. Our foreign service squadrons have been withdrawn or so reduced that many ports in and out of which British trade flows unceasingly have almost forgotten what a British man-of-war looks like. In times past we were wont to safeguard the lives and interests of British subjects all over the world, and our sea-borne commerce, by maintaining adequate cruiser forces at every station. Today we have to send ships on a tour of demonstration like a stage army which essays to make up for lack of numbers by the brilliance of its entries and exits."

The weather last week was extremely bad and all threshing operations were brought to a stop. Different conditions came into being on Sunday, which was an ideal Alberta fall day, and the roads and fields are again beginning to dry up. Heavy frosts commenced on Saturday night.

Miss Ella M. Sick, daughter of Mr. John Sick of Burnside, who is on the nursing staff of the General Hospital, Calgary, was visiting with her grandfather, Mr. W. F. Sick in town for a short time at the beginning of the week.

Mr. J. Herber states that his Everbearing strawberry plants are blossoming and bearing fruit right along and that the frosts seem to have had very little effect on them. Strawberry growing seems to be growing in popularity in Didsbury. Mr. Charlie Mortimer has also had great success with his patch.

The Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered on Sunday, October 12th at Westcott 10:45 a. m.; Sunnyside 2:00 p. m., and Didsbury Evangelical church at 7:30 p. m. Rev. L. H. Wagner of Regina will officiate. All who love the Lord of all denominations, who attend our services whether members or adherents are cordially invited to partake of the communion with us. Rev. W. B. Dengis, pastor.

A musical entertainment will be given by the Mountain View Women's Institute at the Community Hall on Saturday, October 11th, at 8:30 p. m. A very good programme has been provided. Mr. Horace Reynolds, baritone soloist, of Calgary, has kindly offered his services to give a few of his fine selections so it is needless to say that a very interesting evening is in store for those who attend. Admission 50c. Lunch will be served. Ladies please bring sandwiches or cake.
